

MYSTERIOUS SUICIDE OF NEW YORK BROKER

BODY OF E. L. DWYER, WELL KNOWN IN GOTHAM FINANCIAL CIRCLES, FOUND THIS MORNING AT 22 N. HIGH STREET.

SHOT HIMSELF IN HEAD

Arrived in Janesville Yesterday on Way to Fulton to Visit Mrs. Mary Murwin.

Found dead with a bullet wound through his head, his clothes spattered with blood, his pockets empty, but for twelve cents in money, a Chinese laundry ticket, a cheap watch, a few business cards and a key to room 107, Grand Pacific hotel, Chicago, the body of E. L. Dwyer of New York city was discovered this morning on the porch in the rear of 22 North High street.

From a state of affluence in New York city, prominent in financial circles, husband of an Italian countess to a refugee from the police, hiding in out of the way places, is the story of the last few months of Mr. Dwyer's life, according to Mrs. Mary Murwin of Fulton, whom he telephoned Wednesday morning from Chicago and whom he expected to visit. Mr. Dwyer was no stranger to Janesville, having visited here frequently each year, spending several weeks each year at Fulton, the guest of Mrs. Murwin.

Dwyer was registered at the Grand Pacific hotel, Chicago, under his own name, and evidently left there Wednesday morning, coming directly to Janesville. He left considerable baggage in his room, including a trunk and two valises and was well known about the hotel. When notified of his suicide the clerks expressed surprise as they said he had been very cheery when last seen about the hotel.

The dead body was found at 7:30 o'clock this morning on the back porch of a house at 22 North High street, this city, by Mrs. Fred Artlip, mistress of the house. The corpse was in a sitting posture, with back and head against the screen door and was first noticed by Mrs. Artlip as she opened the back door to go to the woodshed.

Thinking that it was merely a drunken man on the steps she telephoned one of the boarders to see that he was removed. On his arrival in response to her call he once noticed that the supposed drunken man was a corpse. Blood was spattered over his neck-cloth and clothes from a wound in his face and between his outstretched legs was a pool of congealed blood.

A new revolver lay against one of his feet with the barrel pointing upward and his right hand hung between his legs. There was nothing to indicate that he had met death in any other way than by his own hand. He had not moved after he began to bleed.

The police and District Attorney Dunwiddie were at once notified and started an investigation. Chief of Police Appleby and Patrolman Patrick Fanning responded to the call. The body was removed to the Kimball morgue.

The name of the dead man, E. L. Dwyer, was found inside his coat pocket, together with the name of the tailoring firm, Kendall Brothers, 1570 Broadway, New York, and the date, April 7, 1911, also the initials E. L. D. were found on other clothing.

The shot that caused his death had been fired through the roof of the mouth which was blackened by powder. But one bullet had been fired for the chambers of the revolver, all of which were loaded, contained but one exploded cartridge. It was a brand new weapon, thirty-two calibre, of the Harrington-Richards manufacture. Inquiries made by the chief of police among local hardware men disclosed the fact that it had not been purchased here. The discharge of the revolver was heard by Mrs. Artlip about eight o'clock last night, but thinking that someone was merely shooting at cast in the lumber yard across the street, as was common, she paid no attention to it. A baker at the Bannison & Lane bakery across the street also heard the shot.

On the person of the dead man was found a key to room 107 in the Grand Pacific hotel, Chicago, the card of P. G. Schaller, 2828 Calumet avenue, Chicago, a leather wallet containing a few cheap collar buttons, a pair of gold eye-glasses, a Chinese laundry ticket, a cheap watch, twelve cents, and a book of slams. He was a tall man with gray hair and heavy mustache and wore clothing of good quality, a tan Fedora hat, brown overcoat and black clothes.

The police learned that the dead man had been seen last evening with David Cunningham, and that they had been drinking together. Mr. Cunningham identified the remains as those of the man in whose company he had been, saying that he met him about seven o'clock last evening. He did not know who the man was, but he told him that he was going to Edgemoor. Cunningham thought it was about nine o'clock when he left him on High street near the corner where he took his life. The man, he said, was a good spender, not taking the trouble to pick up the change after paying for the drinks.

Through A. W. Woodworth and John Quinn, District Attorney Dunwiddie learned that the dead man was a regular guest at the Fulton House, in the town of Fulton, conducted by Mrs. Mary Murwin, and that they had seen him not more than a year ago on his visit there.

Mrs. Murwin was at once summoned to this city, identified the body as that of Mr. Dwyer. She said that he had been expected at Fulton ever since last Saturday, but that yesterday he telephoned from a Chicago hotel that he was unable to come; that

FAVORS GOVERNMENT. OWNER RIVER BOATS

Gov. Hadley in Address at Waterway Commission Meeting at Little Rock Urges Federal Ownership.

Little Rock, Ark., Sept. 26.—A line of boats or barges on the rivers of the Mississippi Valley owned and operated by the national government was advocated in an address today by Governor Herbert S. Hadley of Missouri before the national convention of the Lake and Gulf deep waterway commission.

Governor Hadley declared that to the sixty million people of the United States in the most fertile parts of the continent the use of transportation was most important.

He said in part: "The duty of the important highways of the country so as to make them available for the purpose of transportation belongs along the national government and this should neither be denied nor delayed. The manner and expense to which our rivers should be deepened and improved is a technical engineering problem upon which there exists some differences of opinion."

"I think there can be no question that the deeper the river the larger the boat and the cheaper the rate. The suggestion that the question of bringing this about by the national government is coincident with the placing of a line of barges and boats operated and controlled by the government which will be active in bringing about a satisfactory solution of this entire question."

GENERAL MENA WILL SURRENDER HIMSELF

Leader of Nicaraguan Rebels Ready to Save His Life if Possible—Will End Trouble.

Washington, Sept. 26.—General Mena, leader of the Nicaraguan revolution is to be sent to Panama under guard of the American marines. The American minister Wittich reported to the state department today that Rear Admiral Sutherland had forced the surrender of General Mena and 700 rebels at midnight, Sept. 24th. His capture is taken to indicate the close of the revolution and his removal to Panama probably means exile.

Officials here believe General Mena's request that he be permitted to surrender to Admiral Sutherland from fear of treatment at the hands of the Nicaraguan federalists and the admiral doubtless thought it advisable to get the rebel leader out of the country as soon as possible. Granada is now completely under control of the United States forces. Conditions are reported peaceful in the extreme. The inhabitants face famine in consequence of their long isolation. Red Cross provisions have been distributed with the greatest haste. It is not thought that General Zelaya and his forces will attempt to hold out now that the head of the revolution has given up. Little importance is attached to the announcement by Juan Irias, former follower of the rebel leader to succeed General Mena. He expressed his ambition before the loss of San Jose and Costa Rica several days ago. Nothing has been heard as to his whereabouts.

They had arranged with the artillery men quartered on the inside of the wall to join their movement, but the gunners failed to keep their promise. General Chi Men was made aware of the plot. He permitted the city gates to be opened as had been arranged by the conspirators and when 50 mutineers who were to seize important points were admitted they were immediately shot down. The others hearing the firing followed in and severe fighting began which resulted in the defeat of the mutineers.

HAS UNDERSTANDING BEEN REACHED WITH GOVERNOR M'GOVERN?

Action of Bull Moose Leaders in Endorsing His Candidacy Surprises Politicians.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 26.—Has an understanding between the Bull Moose leaders and Governor McGovern been reached? This is the question that is puzzling politicians of all parties today. That the Bull Moosers have confidently expected the Governor to come out with an endorsement of Roosevelt is certain but why did they endorse him at their committee meeting when he made no such public endorsement? One solution is that he put the matter up fairly and squarely to the Bull Moose leaders that if a third ticket was put in the field he would be defeated by Karel and if the Bull Moosers endorsed his candidacy he could be elected. That in view of this statement and the tacit understanding that the Governor favored the candidacy of Roosevelt he was endorsed is advanced in some quarters.

At any rate the Bull Moosers now declare they have no state ticket in the field and it is indicated that the bluff they put up about having one named is not to be called and all loyal followers of the new party will vote for the republican state nominees on the republican ticket at the November election. For this will please Senator La Follette is the next problem that confronts the republican nominees as his opposition to Roosevelt is known and evidenced in every move.

Senator La Follette has intimated he would take the stump for the republican state ticket but it is safe to say that he will not have anything to say on national affairs, favoring Taft. It is also intimated that the present republican state central committee cannot be depended upon to aid in the Taft campaign at all and that all work in behalf of the President must be done directly through the national headquarters in Chicago.

This would entail a new organization in the state, practically a Taft republican party as it were. Just who would be chosen chairman and where the headquarters will be is uncertain but it is said that already steps have been taken to organize such a committee and that a meeting of Taft republicans has been called for early next week at which time definite steps will be taken to protect the President's interests in Wisconsin.

Some of the former Taft leaders favor the establishment of a set of Taft electors to be placed on the official ballot while others would even go farther and put a state ticket in the field to aid the cause. This latter idea does not find favor in but a few quarters. The younger element of the Taft republicans are opposed to such a move and prefer merely to have an organization in the president's interests and no state ticket or even electors except in cases where the men nominated by the republican state central committee state they are for Roosevelt.

Several of the present electors have stated most emphatically they would vote for Taft, if elected, and candidates on the republican ticket throughout the state, also insist that the electors should either declare for Taft or resign and have their place filled by men who will vote for the president if elected. These candidates claim it is going to seriously inconvenience their candidacies if there is an uncertainty as to how the heads of the ticket will vote.

Meanwhile the democratic state central committee prepares for the committee meeting Saturday which the plans for the campaign will be outlined, speaking dates arranged for and other matters settled. Chairman Paul Henny is in close touch with the Wilson headquarters in Chicago and speakers of note will invade Wisconsin at an early date.

SHIPPERS ALARMED BY CAR SHORTAGES THROUGH COUNTRY

Early Famine Like That of 1907 Is Predicted by Men Conversant With Matters.

Commenting on the car supply statement just issued, which shows that in the two weeks ending September 12, a net car surplus of 9,750 had been converted into a net car shortage of 8,620, the Railway Business Association, the national organization of manufacturers of railway equipment, materials and supplies, has issued the following statement:

The net car shortage just announced coming as early as September, is comparable only with that of September, 1907, which went on increasing until it exceeded 100,000 cars and was relieved by the panic. Shippers are becoming thoroughly aware that insufficient railway earnings are the underlying cause of the present shortage. The Railway Business Association has received from several thousand shippers and receivers of freight, located in nearly every State, and is still receiving, signatures to a declaration which makes manifest that the Interstate Commerce Commission may be assured of public support for a policy permitting to the railways earnings adequate for the provision of needed facilities.

Mr. Frank B. Montgomery, traffic manager of the International Harvester Co., and chairman of the temporary committee of shippers which successfully resisted the proposed advances in freight rates in 1910, said at a recent meeting of the National Industrial Traffic League:

"This winter we are going to have one of the greatest car shortages you ever saw."

The car service report shows a net shortage of 8,620—this not at the climax of a boom, but at a time when the country is debating whether it is or is not on the threshold of industrial expansion.

Shippers fear that congestion may recur chronically at busy seasons following. The declaration by shippers follows:

A Declaration by Shippers.

"The undersigned shippers and receivers of freight, in our own interest, respectfully urge a policy toward railways which, while emphasizing the necessity for their regulation to prevent discrimination and excessive charges; to safeguard life and to promote the convenience and comfort of the public, will give careful heed to the promotion of their prosperity and growth; ascertain in considering enactments compelling expenditures that they possess the resources to meet such outlays without injury to efficient service; provide that in all adjustments of rates adequate revenue shall be insured them to meet existing obligations and to attract capital for necessary improvements and extensions."

The list of signers will be published later.

"Danger Point," Says Prouty.

Railway managers generally attribute their unpreparedness to cope with the traffic to unsatisfactory prospect as to net earnings. The three principal items of increased expense, advance in wages, increase in taxes and expenditure compelled by Congress and the State Legislatures, still tend upward.

Chairman Prouty of the Interstate Commerce Commission is quoted as having said in an address at Kansas City on July 18:

"The danger point today is with respect to service and facilities. It is the general idea that the Commission's business is to stand for the shipper against the railroads. I would remind you that conditions have changed from what they were several years ago and that it is as much our duty to see that the railroads are allowed reasonable rates as for us to look at the matter only from the standpoint of the shipper."

"If the business of this country is to develop, the railroads must develop also. In the next ten years the railroads must add materially to their facilities, must buy cars and better equipment."

"Where is the money with which to do these things coming from? It must come from the same source it did in the first place—from private investment. Therefore, the railroads must make sufficient money both for the paying of their current expenses and for the profit to their stockholders to whom we look for the investment."

Commission Developing Policy.

There is reason to believe that the Interstate Commerce Commission is tentatively developing a policy intended to enlighten that tribunal as to the effect of its decisions upon the revenue of the roads.

The Commission has in various decisions declared that the general level of freight rates should be high enough to enable the railroads to perform their function efficiently. This principle the Commission illustrated in the Spokane, Reno, Portland and other cases where carriers were instructed to keep for an experimental period before final adjudication a detailed account showing the revenue which actually accrued under the existing rates and the revenue which would have accrued on the same volume of business under a specified reduction in those rates. The Commission granted in 1911 advances in Southwestern territory on the ground that those roads needed higher revenue. While denying in the same year advances to the Eastern and Western trunk lines the Commission stated that where large territory and large tonnage was involved in a general advance it was necessary to consider "the fundamental question" of gross earnings and expressed a willingness to sanction advances if experience should prove the need of larger earnings.

For a Broad Plan
The Railway Business Association.

while desiring to observe toward the Commission in its judicial capacity the attitude which would be proper if it were a Court, feels confident that in so purely an administrative matter as the development of a general policy, the Commission will not consider its dignity impinged by the suggestion that the precedents laid down in the cases above mentioned may wisely and in the public interest be extended so as to have a wider application. We think the thousands of signatures to the declaration are evidence that the public is ready for the installation of such a policy and by co-operation will uphold the Commission in the adoption and execution of a broad and liberal plan.

The points which we desire to emphasize are these:

1. Those who finance and execute plans for railway improvements and additions must be convinced beyond peradventure that the tendency of rate regulation will be to foster the financial stability of the roads.

2. Such a conviction will be most effectively carried home by action of the Interstate Commerce Commission and ratification must wisely given if it originates with the Commission on its own motion.

Investors Must be Persuaded.

What is needed, in our judgment, is some system, to be worked out by the Commission, which will eliminate inequities between communities and between individuals while permitting adequate revenue, and which will run through all the decisions, continuously obvious to everyone. What investors would welcome is the constant reiteration by the Commission, in connection with decrees practically illustrating this policy, of its purpose to foster the earnings of the railways so far as they depend upon rate regulation.

It will prove unavailing to say that railway earnings are sufficient and that investors ought not to doubt it. If conditions involve the matter in doubt, they will doubt it. They observe that even with increasing gross receipts the railways are unable to keep unimpaired the item which is the investor's barometer—namely, the annual surplus. It will not make the investor feel any better about it if told that nobody wants or intends to injure the roads. What will persuade him to invest his money is that the roads shall be actively protected and that such active protection shall be a permanent policy.

Commission Should Initiate.

It seems to us that whatever plan is adopted ought to come from the Commission on its own motion. What the Commission said to the trunk lines in 1911 was that should their fears be realized increases would be "sanctioned." This would suggest that it is for the railways to bring the subject up again. But the railroads as a whole, or large groups of roads, often find themselves unable to agree upon proposals to be laid before the Commission. Geographical and other conditions create natural and deep-seated differences of interest between the railways of one region and those of another. Competition and differences of prosperity make arrangements difficult as between the members of a group of roads in one region. Under those conditions must the shipper and the public wait for facilities until the railways ask for rate advances? We cannot believe the Commission would permit an indefinite succession of car shortages due to inadequate revenue to plague American industry without taking action on its own motion.

Commission's Opportunity.

The Commission is in one respect situated fortunately for the country. We know of no tribunal in the history of the Government which has enjoyed in greater degree the confidence of the general public. Its opinions will command acceptance as would those of no other body. The Commission has, therefore, an exceptional opportunity to promote the national prosperity. It is our conviction that if they can find occasion to emphasize in some conspicuous way that they recognize the urgency of this problem and to declare a purpose to devote themselves to its wise solution, so far as their jurisdiction permits the American public will without hesitation accept their policy and the money centers of the world have their confidence in American railway securities strengthened; while the nation led now as always industrially by her railways, will enter upon an era free from needless transportation breakdowns as a factor interrupting prosperity.

Mrs. and Mrs. Raymond Hitchcock.

"We have been married seven years, which I think is quite long enough. Anyway, it's longer than the average theatrical couple stick together." Thus spoke Mrs. Raymond Hitchcock, better known by her stage name of Flora Zabelle, on her recent return from France. It is significant that she was accompanied on the return trip from Europe by the strange man who is known as "Cousin Charlie," and who was responsible for the verbal tilt between Hitchcock and his wife just as she sailed for France a few weeks ago.

CLEAN YOUR LIVER AND 30 FEET OF BOWELS WITH "SYRUP OF FIGS"

MORE EFFECTIVE THAN CALOMEL, CASTOR OIL OR SALTS; GENTLY CLEANS THE STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS WITHOUT NAUSEA OR GRIPING. CHILDREN DEARLY LOVE IT.

You know when your liver is bad, gripe, nausea or weakness. Nothing else cleanses and regulates your liver and bowels so effectively as Syrup of Figs. It's different with Syrup of Figs. Its effect is as that of fruit; of eating coarse food; of exercise. Take a teaspoonful of delicious Syrup of Figs tonight, and you won't realize you have taken anything until morning, when all the clogged up waste matter, sour bile and constipation poisons move on and out of your system, without anything to-night.

Most people shrink from a physic—they think of castor oil, calomel, salts or cathartic pills. It's different with Syrup of Figs. Its effect is as that of fruit; of eating coarse food; of exercise. "I think it is an even thing," said Jimmie Collins when asked what he thought of the world's series between the Sox and the Giants. Collins was manager and third baseman of the Boston American world's champions of 1903 and of the American league in 1914. He is now scout for the Washington American league team. "All this talk about the great superiority of the Boston team sounds well to Boston fans, but you have got to show me where they are going to have any 'cinch,'" he added.

With the object of raising light-harness racing in England to the high standard prevailing in this country, the London Trotting club has been organized. The proposed ocean to ocean relay of the federation of American motorcycleists is attracting a lot of attention in motorcycle circles. It is proposed that a message be carried from a San Francisco army post to the department of the east at New York by motorcycleists. The plan is to use the best roads and make the best possible record. Already about twenty clubs and individuals have enlisted to assist in the relay. Each team will carry the message from 100 to 150 miles and deliver it to the next team, which will be awaiting the arrival of the message bearers.

A well known baseball writer laments the fact that the spirit of commercialism has invaded the national pastime. "It has reached the stage," he declares, "when the dollar sign is considered a better basis of opinion regarding a ball player than his batting average or fielding ability. Everybody, from manager to two-bit bleachers, talks in dollars and the recklessness with which players are used after the dollar sign by press agents is astonishing." The writer adds that many fans are more interested in the money made by their team than they are in its success on the diamond.

FINE MATERIAL FOR HIGH SCHOOL ELEVEN

Some Of The Players Are Making Brilliant Showings—First Game At Stoughton, Oct. 5.

It might be well to review the history of the local high school eleven so far this year. Many of the Alumni are watching the progress of the team, and the students are showing a great deal of interest. At the beginning of the season material seemed to be abundant.

This is the present outlook, only with brighter prospects. Every night thirty men as the average number out for scrimmage. Three weeks ago, all that could be seen in the line of football men, was the old material, composed of Edler, Ryan, Cannon, Smiley, Dalton, Captain Connell and O'Connor. These men are all out and have undoubtedly gained their former positions on the team.

The backfield at present is composed of Edler at left half-back, with Falter at right half-back, and Joe Ryan at full-back. This backfield will possibly remain the same. James Stewart is to play quarterback, as there is no one against him, and it is thought he will prove a success. Thus composed, the backfield will probably be the mainsays of the team.

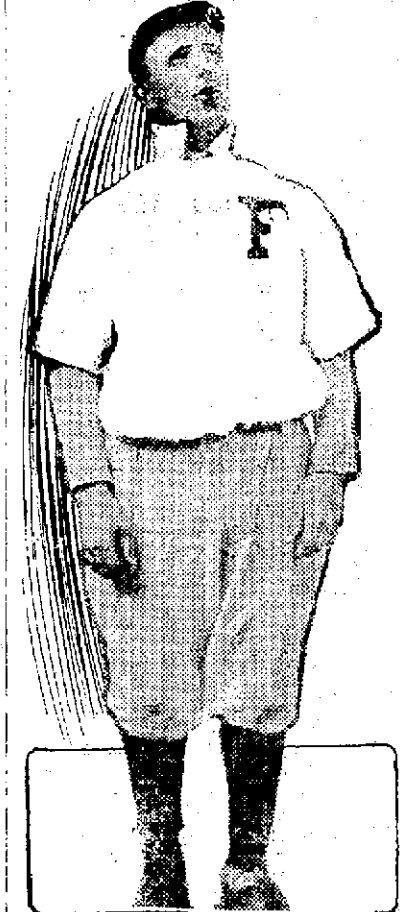

Russell Snidley is at end and is improving over last year to a great advantage. He is successful at catching forward passes, together with "Billy" O'Connor, who has earned the right to play at right end. Connell will play end and may be shifted to half-back when needed. He is an all-around man, his chief position being that of half-back and end. He has shown himself ruler of the gridiron, by the way he has assisted the coach in outlining the present team. Cannon is still at center, and is beginning to show his ability, because of the fact that he has gained a lot of weight since last season, and has trained down. Dalton is the only veteran guard left over and his loss would weaken the team although small as he is. It will require a pair of good guards this year, as line-plugging is the type of game which will be used.

The old material has been mentioned but there are a number of new men who strive to gain a place on the squad. Mark Jones, who weighs close to 150 pounds, is at present playing the other guard opposite Dalton. He will make a handy man, because of the fact that he has learned the game and can make holes. Kuhlrow is another likely candidate for guard, and has been occupying Dalton's place during many practices, and is showing up in good form.

Owing to the fact that the high school squads only consist of fourteen men, on trips, every one is anxious to make the squad, and this is one of the reasons why the team is so successful thus far. Mohr is trying at right tackle and

"HARD-LUCK JUD" COMES INTO HIS OWN

"Jud" Weeder.

George Weeder of the Flint club in the Southern Michigan league, known to fans as "Hard-Luck Jud," through his misfortune in losing game after game by a margin of one run, has at last come into his own. A few days ago he shut out the Battle Creek club in both games of a double-header, thereby pulling the Food City team out of first place, a position they had held since the beginning of the season. Several pitchers of the Southern Michigan circuit have been able to win both games of a double-header, but Weeder is the first to whitewash his opponents in both games.

A new man appeared last night, a fellow by the name of Cook. He is of a good build and is a new man to school. He will try for guard to's year, when it is thought he will make the best showing. With this complete line-up the high school should have a worthy team. A fight is being made by Ryan, Falter and Edler, to decide who will do the punting this season. After last night's practice, Ryan remained a while to practice kicking the ball. It's kicks were all accurate, not one being a failure. He became successful in making the ball sail through the air, high and far and at distances of from fifty to sixty-five yards. This was the best exhibition of punting done so far this year. Edler and Riley kick equally well. These three men have been doing the kicking since the opening of the season, and it has been doubtful as to who would do the booting. Drop kicking will not be a feature this year, but Captain Connell will be called on when it is necessary, as his drops are accurate, and far.

The schedule is all arranged but one game which will be heard from this week, that game being with Hamilton. The following is the schedule as it stands today.

THE KIND OF CAMPAIGN THAT WINS.

John M. Harlan and J. Adam Bede, in their tour through the mountain and prairie states across the Missouri, have been giving a good sample of the kind of campaign that eliminates the Roosevelt menace.

The proof of this is the enthusiastic reception given to their plain truths about Mr. Roosevelt. For instance, Mr. Harlan said in Topeka, Monday night:

"The crook who steals your watch while he sings 'Onward, Christian Soldier,' does not represent the Kansas idea of progress. Roosevelt battles for the Lord at Armageddon, and for the devil in Kansas and California. He preaches honesty and sincerity, and practices the methods of Fagin, Uriah Heep and Bill Sykes. He would rob the republicans of Kansas of a chance to express their choice at the polls. He calls it progress. I call it stealing. What do you call it?"

"Stealing!" answered 5,000 people. And this in Kansas, where the forecasters who take notice for conviction have told us that the voters were unanimous for "Teddy!"

This is the report that comes from the special correspondent of the Chicago Inter Ocean, who is touring the west with the two republican speakers. People who depend entirely on the Chicago Tribune, for their political inspiration, may be surprised to learn republicanism in Kansas is of the same loyal type as in New York or any other state.

When Colonel Roosevelt was president, the "big stick" of which he boasted, was a part of his administration, and he wielded it effectively. Any man whom he classed as an undesirable citizen, was sentenced without court or jury, and his judgment was accepted on all questions without protest, by the masses.

But the colonel today is a private citizen, and the "big stick" inspires no one with awe or reverence. When he attacks his old friend Taft he attacks the president of all the people, and insults intelligence regardless of party.

The American people may be emotional and more or less influenced by sentiment; but they believe in fairness and justice and the "square deal," which the colonel exploited and made popular when president, is a part of their creed.

Then, too, aside from the personal element, which had been made prominent in the campaign, is the great party which made the two men now so prominent as leaders. This national party was in existence, and performing well its mission, long before the colonel was a part of history, and it will continue to be a force in national life long after the Bull Moose leader has passed from the stage.

The noisy water which rushes over the rapids attracts attention, while the quiet stretches and deep currents perform their mission quietly, but none the less effectively. The colonel is having a good time, riding the rapids, but that he is a surface performer is already apparent.

GOT ITS DOSE.
"Also the state of New York is having its eyes opened by experience to the farcical character of the direct primary as a device for getting candidates nominated by 'the people'."

"The practical trouble of course is as usual that only a corporal's guard of voters can be got to the primaries at all; and that certainly is not choice by 'the people.' No matter how good an instrument may be theoretically it amounts to nothing in practice if the people will not use it."

"The vote at the New York primaries last week was absurdly small. In some districts the vote cast was not 10 per cent of the registration. Fifty per cent was the top figure."

"And this is 'direct nomination by the people!' It was not even representative nomination by the people, as under the convention system."

"As for the grossly disproportionate cost, the New York World states: 'In every case the cost was excessive, contrasted with the smallness of the vote. In Utica 531 republican votes were cast, at a cost of $125 each; 418 democratic votes cost $150 each; eleven socialist and eleven prohibition votes cost $15 each. Only one independence league vote was cast; it cost $115.'"

"So it goes, not only in New York, but wherever the direct primary system has been adopted. Fancy making laws or unmaking judges by such a system, where the snap vote of a handful of voters calls itself the voice of the people!"

"The public cries out against 'too much politics' and the primary system doubles the dose—forces on the surfeited public two campaigns and two elections, where one of each used to suffice.

"And can any man in his senses honestly claim that the direct primary has resulted in a higher class of candidates?"

This from the Milwaukee Sentinel is a just criticism of the primary law. The only thing that it accomplishes is the object for which it was created, namely to keep the men in office who created it, and this it does to the queen's taste.

Industrial education is practical education, and more important to the common school system of the land than the dead languages or half a dozen other things that are taught. The masses are obliged to make their living by the work of the hand. This brand of education has been too long neglected.

Everybody wants the tariff reduced except on the products in which they are interested. The south wants protection on cotton and sugar, the extreme west on wool and fruit products, and the east on a long line of industries. American labor, while not alive to the situation, needs protection in all parts of the country. The democratic party is a free trade party. This is well to remember on election day.

The officials of the busiest state in the union are about to launch a life insurance company. The scheme is on a par with the intelligence and lack of business sense which produced the twine binder plant. There will be time enough for the state to engage in private business when the university gets through buying land at $1,200 per acre.

Mr. Hearst has had no particular love for Colonel Roosevelt since he classed him as the man responsible for President McKinley's murder, and among the letters recently unearthed is one in which President Roosevelt expressed a desire to meet Mr. Archbold at a lunch and have a quiet talk with him concerning his campaign of 1904.

Harmony has been restored and the Bull Moose and Badger progressives will now feed out of the same trough. This means that the two herds will have the privilege of declaring their independence by voting for either Roosevelt or Wilson. In the meantime the republicans of the state will continue to support Taft.

The enthusiasm which greeted Judge Karel at Milton yesterday is significant, and indicates that a change of state administration is in the minds of the people regardless of party.

The Bull Moose leader finds that deep waterways interest the people of Arkansas more than his brand of politics, and so he is devoting his time to the Panama canal.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

STRANGER THAN FICTION.

The story of Ivo Shields of Seattle reads like one of the rare tales of Sir Gilbert Parker.

Shields, a bachelor of sixty-one, had a good job as janitor of a big building. He also had a friend. The friend was out of a job and had a wife and several little children to support.

Now comes the part that reads like fiction. Ivo Shields gave up his job to his friend, whose children were crying for bread, and went back to the woods, where he had once been employed as a logger.

He had a hard time of it. Work was irregular, and often Ivo Shields slept on the ground and had to tighten his belt to stay his stomach. But the picture in his mind of his friend gathering his little ones about him in comfort and happiness gave him great satisfaction.

One day Ivo Shields got enough money to make a visit to Seattle. He was so happy to see his old friends that he got drunk.

And when he awoke he was in jail charged with forging a check for $26.50. He remembered nothing about this check, but it was in his handwriting.

"The grizzled old logger was arraigned, and what do you think? Both the prosecutor and the judge said to him: 'Do not plead guilty. If you do you must go to prison.'"

W-b-a-t? Judge and prosecutor, charged with the execution of the law, did that? Yes; get their names, just as the recording angel got them—Judge Gay and Prosecutor Caldwell.

They had learned how the old hero had given up his job for his friend, and they paid the check and let Shields go back to the woods.

But that is sparing the guilty! That brings the law into contempt! Maybe so. The big calf bound books of the courtroom distinctly tell what to do in such cases, even if the forger be drunk.

But there are those who will say it was better to pay the check and send the old man back to the woods with the lesson of his life—back to the woods, where there are no saloons—than to have sent him to the penitentiary.

I think so.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT
By ROY K. MOULTON.

Mr. Soggy's Daschund.

Temuel Soggy, the eminent canine fancier, has bred a daschund which is the observed of all observers. It is said to be the longest daschund in the world. The daschund can walk around the barn and bite his own tail. In fact, when he is walking around the barn he can hardly get out of his own way. When Mr. Soggy pinches the dog's tail the sensation does not reach the dog's tail until the next day, and he is occasionally heard to howl when there is apparently nothing happening to him. In other words, the dog's tail could be chopped off and he wouldn't hear about it for 24 hours. Mrs. Soggy intends to train the dog for use as a clothesline. She is trying to teach him to hang onto the post with his jaws and onto another post with his tail. One trouble with the dog seems to be that he drags on the ground considerably for a portion of his length. Mr. Soggy hopes to overcome this by making some supporting pillars to the bottoms of which roller skates will be attached, so that they will slide over the ground easily when the dog is in motion. These skates will be attached to the under side of the dog. It takes the dog 20 minutes to pass a given point; almost as long, in fact, as it takes President Taft to do the same, and the only way to bathe the faithful animal is to have him run back and forth under a pump.

The Musical Comedy.

It's not so very hard to write. At least it shouldn't be. Take some old pot that's rather trite. And very plain to see. Start all the situations and steal all the music, too. From some big hits of bygone years. As many authors do. Be sure and have a tenor and a mezzo who's a peach. Be sure and lay one of the scenes beside the sunlit beach. For then you have the bathing suits. Cut short, but very loud. In that way you are always sure to draw the baldheaded crowd.

The chorus girls they need not sing. But must be long on looks. Their costumes must be taken from The latest fashion books. You need one good comedian To hurdle into view. And spring some jokelets that were heard.

When Baby'on was new: Some oogie-hoogie, lovesick songs. The kind that whistle well; Some chorus men in high silk hats. Make the production "swell." Take these ingredients and add A well-known, high-priced star. Get some darned fool to back the thing. With coin, and there you are.

How to be Happy, Though Poor.

Sit on the front porch and watch the millionaires go by in their automobiles.

Go and see the moving pictures of Henry Frick's billion-dollar lawn party.

If you are hungry, walk by some sweet cafe and get a smell.

Make-up your mind that codfish is the best eating in the world and that mushrooms, lobsters, crabs and sweetbreads give folks dyspepsia and make them miserable.

Go for a long walk in the country. If somebody doesn't run over you, you will probably have a good time, and such a walk is very healthful.

Take a nickel's worth of lunch and go fishing.

Go and sit with some rich relative and hear him tell how he made all his money.

We have tried all of these with great success and can recommend them.

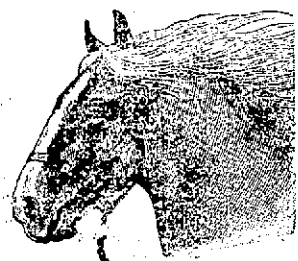

From the Hickeyville Clarion.

"I know an old gink," said Hank Purdy. "I know an old gink who is the smoothest horse trader in this country." He has the kindest face I ever saw, and he is really a terrible good man, in fact he is almost too good to be true. When it comes to horse flesh, I wouldn't trust him any further than I could throw a bull by the tail. Otherwise he is all right. He can doctor up a horse so it would fool Pop Geers. A little while back he sold one at a fancy price to a neighbor. It was about a $7 horse to start with, not more than that. The next day the horse was taken sick and died. The neighbor called out friend over and demanded an explanation. "Well, I'll be ding swizzled," said the latter. "I am certainly surprised. I never saw that horse do that before."

Mr. Lorin Riggs, the eminent piscatorialist and authority in fishology, received a severe drenching while whipping one of the streams for the festive rainbow trout the other day. An immense rainbow dragged him into the stream and was swimming away with him rapidly. The trout turned over to look at Mr. Riggs and as it did so became caught sideways in the stream. The stream was so narrow (only about twelve feet wide) that the trout became jammed in between the two banks and could not extricate itself. While the trout was thus in chancery Mr. Riggs crawled out on the bank, ran to a neighboring farmhouse and borrowed an ax with which he dispatched the trout with only fifteen or twenty well directed strokes. It was impossible to weigh the fish, but Mr. Riggs is authority for the statement that it weighed fully as much as any other rainbow trout he has ever seen.

Music of the Hawk.
There is not much to be said for hawk music, yet the voice of the forest would lose the charm of its wild note were this great bird extinct, and it is because it is wild and different from sounds of every day that we love it. Then, as a picture seen from afar, the forest would never be complete without these birds of tireless wing hanging over it, and reigning upon their thrones of air.

A Little Talk On Quality:

There are a great many places where you can buy goods at extremely low prices, but experience, except in rare cases, teaches us that the goods are worth no more than the low prices paid for them.

Sometimes we wonder when reading in other's advertisements glowing descriptions of articles that they are selling, but when these goods are compared with our line of the same articles ninety-nine cases out of a hundred we don't wonder long. Ours has the quality—theirs has not.

Price is only one of the things to be considered, for if you fail to get quality you simply throw away good money, no matter how small the amount may be. Therefore, our policy is, and always has been, to sell the Right Quality at the Right Price, and you will find invariably that a lower price than ours means a correspondingly lower quality. It is the combination of prices and quality in which this store is strong.

MYSTERIOUS SUICIDE OF NEW YORK BROKER

BOOY OF E. L. DWYER, WELL KNOWN IN GOTHAM FINANCIAL CIRCLES, FOUND THIS MORNING AT 22 N. HIGH STREET.

SHOT HIMSELF IN HEAD

he was called away on a business trip to Mexico where he had large business interests. For many years past he had been making regular visits there, Mrs. Murwin being a childhood friend of Mr. Dwyer. He made his last visit there in August a year ago, leaving at the time of the Irish picnic.

According to George G. Sutherland of this city, to whom the dead man is well known, Dwyer has had a most remarkable career as a financier and promoter. Born in Tarrytown, Conn. he was adopted as a boy by Mr. James Van Etta of this city, now deceased. Mr. Van Etta took him to New York, gave him an education, and gave him a home for many years at his farm in the town of Fulton.

When he was about twenty-one years of age he went to work for the McCormick Wheatster company as a salesman in Mexico. He learned to speak the Spanish language fluently and secured a strong standing in the country through his friends in the priesthood and his business connections. His success brought him to the attention of the firm of Huntington and Grant, who gave him a position as promoter for the first railway to be built in Mexico.

In their service he made numerous trips to Europe and sold the railway's bonds in England, Belgium, Holland, and France. At one time he was recognized as one of the world's greatest promoters.

The career of Mr. Dwyer has not been without its sensational and romantic episodes. While a young man he was married and two children were born to him, but they died many years ago. Later he was married to an Italian countess about seventy years of age. She died about a year later and left to him valuable granite and marble quarries in Maine, a considerable sum of money, and an orange grove in Florida said to have been valued at $500,000.

At the time of the Spanish-American war he enlisted as a marine and went to the Philippines. The novelty of such a wealthy man entering the service attracted wide attention and he was generally known as the "Millionaire Marine."

His purpose in going to the Philippines was to find out what the possibilities were for exploiting the country, but as he found that the rebellion there would likely continue for a long time, and the business prospects were discouraging he obtained a discharge from the service and returned to the United States. It was Mr. Dwyer who a few years ago came to this city with three men from Managua, Nicaragua, in an effort to sell stock in business enterprises there. He has been heavily interested in South American enterprises in recent years and also promoted a swamp reclamation scheme near New Orleans where he is well known.

On the thirty-first of last January Mr. Dwyer became embroiled in a stabbing affray in the apartments of Mrs. Fannie Carrier on the tenth floor of the Bennington Corner apartments at the corner of One Hundredth street and West End avenue, New York city.

Umberto Roberts (a Porto Rican nineteen years old, who three weeks before had been his private secretary, paid unwelcome attentions to Mrs. Carrier, to whom Dwyer claimed to be engaged. In the quarrel which took place Roberts drew a knife. Dwyer succeeded in taking the weapon from him and in doing so cut the Porto Rican about the face and hands.

Both men were arrested and placed under bonds, but Roberts disappeared and the case was never brought into court. Mrs. Fannie Carrier is the mother-in-law of Daniel C. Ried, a millionaire who has made a fortune in plate and is now chairman of the board of directors of the Rock Island railway. He is also interested in the United States Steel Corporation and other railway properties. Mr. Ried married Mable Carrier, who is a daughter of Mrs. Fannie Carrier. Mr. Dwyer then had bachelor apartments at 102 East Twenty-sixth street.

The dead man is said to have been a very erratic character. He speculated heavily on the Board of Trade and his fortunes suffered great fluctuations. Mrs. Dwyer drank heavily at times, and was then a profligate spender. His habits clung to him even in adversity, for the man with whom he drank here yesterday says he did not trouble to pick up the change from the bar when he paid for his drinks. That Mr. Dwyer was despondent from business worries and reverses is the opinion of Mrs. Murwin. He was in the habit of carrying a fine gold watch made to order and said to be worth $500. This had probably been pawned or sold as the only watch on his person was a cheap one, having a brass case from which the gold had been worn.

He had never been in the habit of carrying a gun. Mrs. Murwin received her last letter from him Friday afternoon. It had been written from the Hotel Brown, Midtown, New York, on September 19, and was an acknowledgment of some clippings sent him by Mrs. Murwin. Dwyer had his financial business with the firm of J. W. Place & Company, 67 Wall street, New York, and his lawyers were Roberts, Harmon & Davis, 32 Park Place, the same city. They have been notified. The remains will be held until they are heard from. Burial will probably be in the Fulton cemetery as he had purchased a lot there. Dwyer was a Mason and Knight Templar and at one time a member of the New York and London clubs.

COLLEGES NO LONGER EDUCATE MINISTERS

Original Purpose of American Educational Institutions is Now Radically Changed.

The original purpose of American colleges was mainly to train men for the ministry, but so it is no longer. Harvard, founded chiefly to educate clergymen, now gives to this profession barely 2 per cent of her graduates; Yale, begun under similar impulses, now contributes a meager 3 per cent. This and other interesting changes in the professions favored by college graduates are described in a bulletin by Bailey B. Burrill on "Professional Distribution of University and College Graduates," just issued by the United States Bureau of Education.

The decline in the numbers going into the ministry has been accompanied by a rise in the professions of teaching, law and business. All three have been more or less consistent gainers at the expense of the ministry. It is only of recent years that men with business careers ahead of them have taken advantage of college opportunities.

At Harvard the ministry yielded to law after the Revolutionary War, and law remained the dominant profession of Harvard graduates until 1880, when business took the lead.

WITH MRS. HAVENOR

Hugh Duffy.

Hugh Duffy, who has been managing the Milwaukee team of the American association, is quite disgusted with Mrs. Havenor, owner of the club. Mrs. Havenor recently declared that Duffy is to blame for the poor showing of her club this season, and informed her manager that she would cut his salary from $7,500 to $3,000. Duffy demurred and declared he would not stand for a reduction. "Any manager with any pride would refuse such a proposition, and that is what I did," said Duffy. "I agree with Roger Bresnahan that women have no business in baseball."

Woodpecker's Hearing.

It is not easy to explain why woodpeckers select one tree rather than others of the same kind in the forest upon which to begin their operations, or why they attack one side of a tree and leave the other untouched. Commonly it will be found, no doubt, that worms or ants are concealed beneath the point selected and that the woodpecker is guided in his search by the sense of hearing.

WORKING FOR PEACE

Thomas J. O'Brien and William W. Rockhill.

Italy and Turkey are both anxious for peace, and have declared they would welcome the good offices of the United States rather than those of any other nation in bringing about an understanding. Thomas J. O'Brien and William W. Rockhill, American ambassadors at Rome and Constantinople, have already rendered important services to the warring nations through their unofficial initiative, and if peace is secured at an early day much of the credit will be due to them for their friendly efforts.

"DON'T LIE TO YOUR WIFE." makes you laugh and keeps you guessing. Every minute you are sure he is going to make an important arrest, and every other minute or so during the performance it looks as if he might, but the gentlemanly crook under surveillance is a smooth member of the light fingered fraternity trained to avoid the nets and pitfalls set for him by the officers of the law, so that although "Officer 666" has been hot on his trail for a year, that suave cracksmen is still at liberty, the enjoyment of which is participated in to as full.

"THE MISSOURI GIRL" COMING SOON!

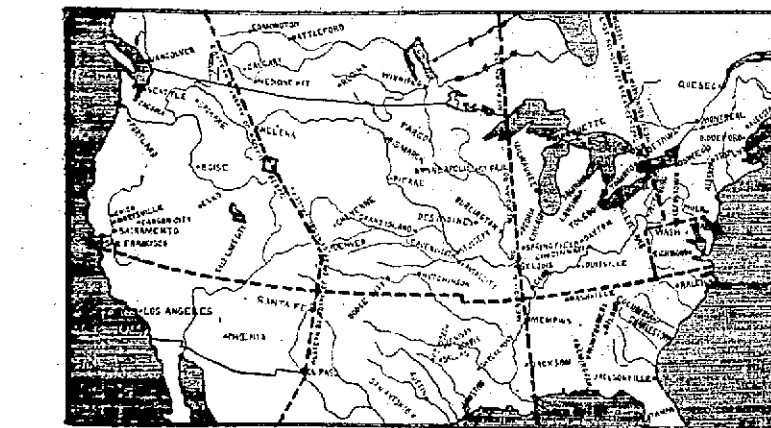

The character of "Zeke Dobson" the country boy in "The Missouri Girl" is one of unique conception. Among the many impersonations of the rural types offered to the theater-going public, there are but few limitations, absolute and unqualified, that cases where the author has even attempted to portray this interesting character as he is seen in real life.

The stage character of the farmer is so thoroughly impressed on our minds that it is impossible for us to imagine a rural play without the usual impossible characters, that are, in many cases a serious drawback to an otherwise good play.

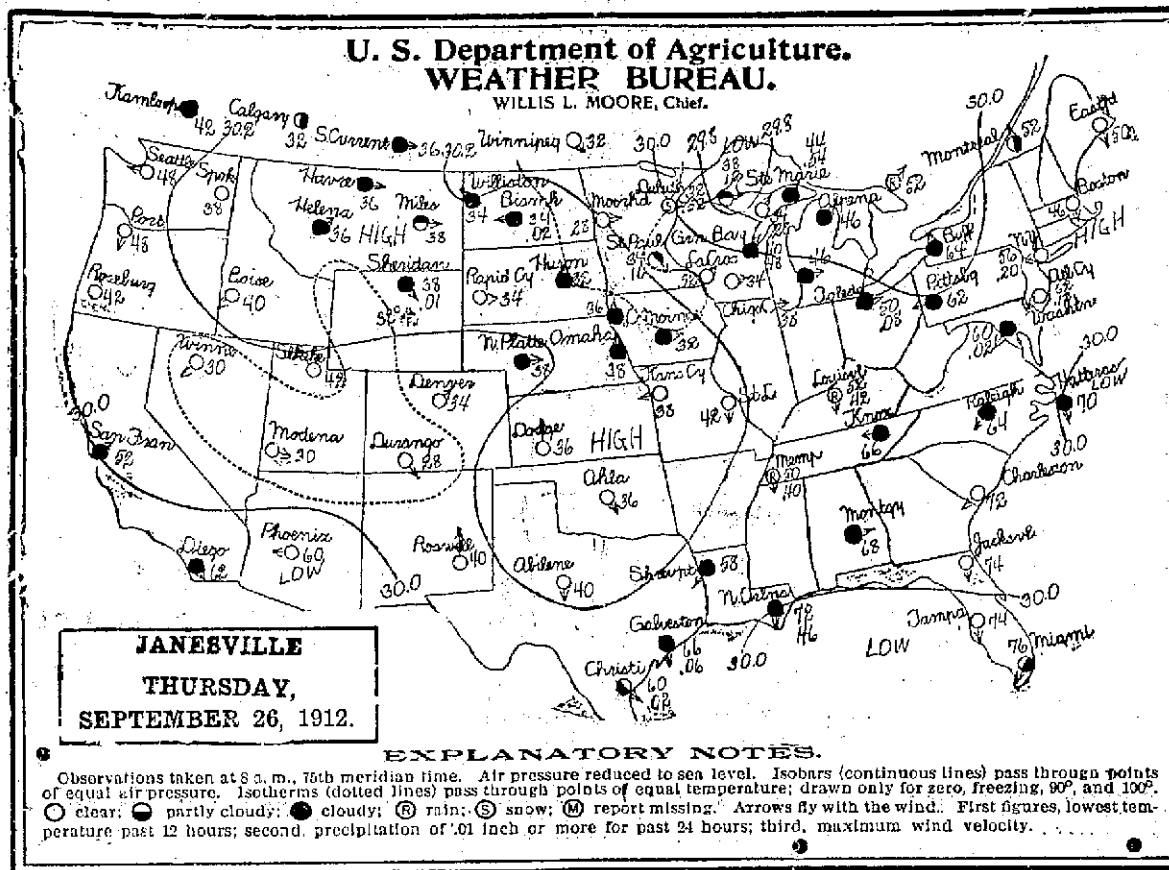

"The Missouri Girl," will be seen at the Myers Theatre, Sunday, Sept. 29, and Monday, evening, Sept. 30, at 10 and 11. Seats ready Saturday at 9 a. m.

Cleaning Glass Vases.

Flower vases which have become cloudy and discolored should be cleaned with a mixture of vinegar and salt, poured in and well shaken about. A long piece of stiff wire, upon the end of which is a little pad of soft rag, should be poked into all the corners and crevices, and the vase then rinsed in warm water and dried with a good polishing cloth. Fly marks upon the gilt frames of pictures should be rubbed with half a lemon and then polished with a chamois leather.

LANDLORD GUTTERY
HOST AT BANQUET

Seventy Guests Aid Host at Edgerton
Hostelry Celebrate his Birthday Anniversary.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Edgerton, Sept. 26.—About seventy invited guests assembled at the Carlton Hotel last night to participate in celebrating the anniversary of the fifty-fifth birthday of Landlord Guttery. At nine o'clock the guests were seated at the tables in the appropriately decorated dining room and partook of a clam supper prepared by experts in the culinary art.

After the meal had been served, Lawrence C. Whitte, toastmaster of the evening, in a few well worded remarks, presented the host with a handsome and substantial present. Mr. Guttery expressed his appreciation of the company of friends present and kindly thanked them for the gift in remembrance of the occasion. In response to the call of the toastmaster appropriate speeches were made by Victor P. Richardson, Thomas Welsh and Wm. Buchanan of Janesville, and John Holton of Stoughton and F. J. Colman of Madison.

It can safely be said that the gathering was one of the most pleasant affairs ever attended by the many friends of the worthy host, who is a prince as an entertainer. Mr. Guttery has been proprietor of the Carlton nearly two years and in that short time Edgerton has gained fame among traveling men and those from far and near who patronize public houses, as having one of the best kept hotels in all respects. He is one of the most genial landlords of any city in the state.

In gaining for Edgerton this reputation, Mr. Guttery's success is partially shared by Mrs. Guttery, whose able attention and affable ways are appreciated by all patrons.

MINERS WILL NOT YIELD, SAYS WHITE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

That the West Virginia coal miners, who are on strike for higher wages, recognition of the union and better working conditions, will not yield to the coal operators, who refuse to make concessions, is the declaration of John P. White, president of the International Mine Workers' union. He says that unless the operators weaken and agree to meet the union the struggle will go on indefinitely. The mine owners have refused to meet the union and declare they will not submit to arbitration.

The Dreams of a Beauty Doctor.

LIKE my dreams better than my waking moments, for in my dreams I get down to the realities of life and in my waking moments—well, you all know what I say. And it isn't like this:

Dear Peachy:—Could you give me advice of how to get a new skin. My skin looks terrible and I would like to get a new one.

A Constant Reader.
Heavens! Has constant reading brought about this faith in my powers? The only way I know to get a new skin is to slice off the old one, and let a new one grow. It may be painful. But what is pain compared to beauty?

Science says our bodies are all made over in the course of seven years, so if you are willing to wait this time, and will give some attention to the making of yourself over by eating right and living right and doing a few plain, old-fashioned things like this, you may get a new skin in this way. The only other way I know is to die and be reincarnated.

Dear Peachy:—I would like to get my skin a shade or two lighter. Can you suggest any way?

Yes; wash it.

Dear Peachy:—I am quite young, but my hair is beginning to turn gray, and my husband says I look like his mother instead of his wife. Will you tell me how to dye it?

Oh these husbands! It's the men who drive the women to the dye pot. Women wouldn't care a fig for gray hair if it wasn't for what men will think. Tell him he never had a better friend than his mother, and that the wife who is like his mother is a treasure. Tell him you can cook his beefsteak and darn his socks just as well if your hair is gray. Tell him hair has nothing to do with character unless he nags you into being a sham because of a few gray hairs. Tell him—but no, what am I saying? There is no use in telling a man of this sort anything. Dye your hair. I'm sorry. It isn't your fault. You are one of the straight-front, hipless and false haired army just because some man wants you to be. You can get a good hair dye at the drug store. It's a lot of work to put it on, but you are in the clutch of Fate.

Dear Peachy:—I am fifty years old and still unmarried. Is there anything I can do to make myself look younger?

Lonely.
Don't try it. There is no sight on earth so sad as an old woman trying to look sweet sixteen. But there's hope for you since you tell your age. Be bright and up to date and interesting and kind and all the rest of the nice things we can be if we want to, and people will be so occupied in enjoying your society they won't have time to think about your age.

The Evening Chit-Chat

WHAT IS "A DECENT BRINGING UP?"

A LITTLE group of women were discussing the subject of race suicide the other day.

One woman, who has been married four years and has a family to match, said with a good deal of vigor that she thought that these women who were married three or four years before they had any children at all were absolutely wicked.

And then, of course, someone spoke up with that familiar argument behind which so many young married women who avoid motherhood try to shelter themselves:—"I think it's a good deal worse to have children when you can't afford to bring them up decently."

Now to my mind there's a good deal to that argument.

And yet I don't think it's any excuse at all for many of the women who justify themselves by it.

You think those two statements are inconsistent? Not a bit. It certainly isn't kind to bring children into the world when you can't afford to bring them up decently. But it is these women's idea of "decently" with which I quarrel.

By a "decent bringing up" they do not simply mean enough good food to build a healthy body, enough education to develop an intelligent mind, and enough care and training to help form the kind of character a good citizen ought to have.

Indeed no.

When they say they can't afford to have children because they can't bring them up decently, they mean they can't afford to usher them into the world with all the fuss and fandango with which the modern baby often makes his advent into the most modest home; that they cannot afford to surround their children's babyhood with all the paraphernalia with which their wealthier friends make babyhood complex and unnatural; that they cannot afford to give them as children all the expensive playthings, the fancy frills of education, the fine gowns in which to ape their elders, and the lavish supply of spending money which the modern child must have "because all the other children do."

The proprietress of one of those little shops at which the school children of the town do most of their trading told me it was really amazing how much money the children even of modest homes had to spend.

"There are dozens of children that have a penny or two every day," said she, "and some have a dime a day, and there's one boy from up your way that comes in with a quarter almost every morning."

I remember when I was a little girl another girl told me that she and her cousin, who was visiting her, were each to have a penny a day for a week. Ever after, that girl was a marked person to me—my youthful idea of a plutocrat.

And yet I had a very happy childhood.

I wonder if children nowadays couldn't manage to have a happy and profitable childhood without all these luxuries and frills which we have come to consider part of "a decent bringing up."

Yes, my friends, it may be some excuse for avoiding motherhood that you really can't afford to bring up a child decently, but is it any excuse that you don't want to undergo the least self-denial or loss of freedom yourself, or that you can't give a child every luxury and pleasure and frill you might enjoy giving?

HOUSEHOLD
TALKSBy

"Why, culinary editor, do you say as every one else, that it was a man who ate the first oyster? Of course it might have been Adam, but I don't think it was he or any of our great men. Columbus when he landed might have stumbled his big toe on a mollusk and, thinking it a new sort of nut, peculiar to the new land, eaten it out the sly, but I doubt it."

The Indian braves may have wandered along the shore finding and eating the delicious bits from the half shell, alive and wriggling, for they were a cruel race, but did they?

"Will you prove to our satisfaction, once and for all, that the first man was not a woman; or at least that the first person to swallow an oyster was a man?"

This is the sort of query we've been met with since our interview with John Mollusk Smith, last Wednesday; happily most of the querists have neglected to sign their letters so we can drop the controversy and proceed to follow the example of the first man, who is said to have said to the first woman who cooked the first oyster:

"Oh, Nancy Jane, but this is rich; go fix yourself jest some of sich."

That oysters are only good in months that have R in them is an absurd belief that dates back to the year 1700, when a bishop named Butler advanced a theory that liquids were unwholesome and wrote a treatise called "Butler's Dry Diet Diner." Now this Butler was a vicar in an inland country parish where fresh oysters could not be had, so it is not likely that what he knew about them was worth knowing, but like many other "domestic men," he aired his ignorance and for 400 years we've been deprived of the most important of our shellfish in the summer months.

The oyster is almost the only animal substance which we eat by preference in the raw state. Popular judgment is generally right on dietetic questions, and in this case there is a sound physiological reason for the preference.

The fawn colored mass which constitutes the dainty part of the oyster is its liver and this is a heap of glycogen. Associated with the glycogen, but held apart from it during life, is the hepatic diastase. When the oyster is eaten these two bodies are brought together and one immediately digests the other. When oysters are cooked the heat destroys these ferments and they must then be digested as any other foods.

Already the query is made in the cafes, "Gotnoysters?" and the rosy-cheeked waitress or burly waiter takes his stand by the diner with death dealing knife in hand ready to open a half dozen blue points, or Cape May Silts, Coves or Saddle-rocks piled on the table like bricks and surmounted with chips of ice.

Life is the opener. Cruel to eat them alive, doctor Wiley. Why, it would be cruel to deprive us of them. We are a nation of oyster eaters and see what the oyster owes us; we have brought him to the zenith of his fame; we have saved him from destruction, annihilation. We are the friend of the oyster; raw, roast, fried, scalloped, steamed, stewed and panned. We love him early in the morning in his pearly shell with a sprinkle of lemon and cayenne, when we've been going it a bit the night before. At noon he holds sway in milky stew and at night he is sought for in a new dress of brown batter.

And so we seek him from the first of September to the last of April from morning till night.

The English, the Dutch, the French and Italians are cruel to the mussels and coppery things they call oysters, but we treat ours as fish, flesh, fowl and good red herring all in one. Here we perfect him, and the time to swallow him is at hand.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

THE tender morsels on the palate melt. And all the force of cookery is felt.

INVALID DISHES.

The greatest importance is to be attached to the preparation of food for the sick. Oftentimes the diet is of much more importance than the drug.

Wholesome, dainty food, with prompt and nice service, are very essential.

Do not consult the patient as to his food; surprises are a great pleasure to one who is ill.

Prepare the tray with a spotless cloth, select the prettiest china and be careful to arrange the dishes in a convenient place for the sick one to reach them.

All hot foods should be served on hot dishes, and cold foods on cold dishes.

For feverish patients, cold water and fruit juices are most refreshing.

Hot lemonade with hot milk and egg are good hot drinks and are also nourishing.

A raw egg can be easily taken in lemonade when it otherwise might be objectionable.

Almond Soup.—Blanch and pound in a mortar a half pound of almonds. Gradually add a pint of milk. When the almonds are a smooth paste and the milk is all used, strain by squeezing through a cheese cloth. To a pint of scalded milk add two tablespoons of sugar and a half teaspoonful of salt. Now add to the almond mixture and bring to the boiling point. Serve hot.

Chicken Custard.—Take the crumbs from the center of the loaf, half cupful, add to these two tablespoons of chopped breast of chicken, a pinch of salt, celery salt and a cup of milk; add the yolks of two eggs and bake in a custard cup set in hot water. Serve hot.

Syllabub.—Take four egg yolks, a tablespoonful of flour, a teaspoonful of favoring, a pint of milk, three-fourths of a cup of sugar and a pint of whipped cream. Mix half the sugar with the flour, bring the milk to the boiling point, add the sugar and flour and cook ten minutes. Beat the egg yolks, add the remaining sugar and cook all together until smooth. Fill a tumbler half full of this mixture and fill it with sweetened whipped cream.

DIET AND HEALTH
HINTSBy DR. T. J. ALLEN
Food SpecialistFOOD FOR 3-YEAR-OLD CHILD.

A reader asks whether a mother did wisely in requiring a child of three who was thriving well on milk to add solid foods, including meat. Almost any child would live better indefinitely on milk than on a mixed diet although cereals and milk make good diet for the child.

Sugar, fruits, dates, figs and raisins may also be allowed, but no child should be required to eat the variety of foods found on the table of the average family. A normal child will prefer to make a meal of one or two articles of food and will refuse many that are altogether unnecessary for either adult or young.

WHY WOMEN FORGIVE.

Are men more unforgetting than women?

One clerk of court says they are. Women who bring divorce suits, he declares, may often be persuaded to forgive and forget and try life over again with their husbands; but seldom is a husband willing to dismiss a divorce suit which he has started.

Women ought to be forgiving, heaven knows. They've been well trained to it through past generations.

From babyhood a girl has had it instilled into her that men must be forgiven their frailties, while on the other hand, even the infant boy knows that he can cut up about as he pleases and be always taken back to the bosom of some good woman, from his mother on.

Also, the son learns that though HE may shatter all the virtues and still be received in good society, the woman who makes the slightest slip must be frowned down and her misstep, always kept in mind as an unforgivable matter.

It's our double standard of morality, implanted in us by ages of man rule, which is part of the reason why divorce-seeking wives often are willing to "try it over again," and divorce-seeking husbands won't.

Then women have been bred to hope to wipe against the lessons of past experience, to hope against reason, to hope against certainty—to hope, anyway. It's kind of hollow comfort to which she clings—a comfort that is the cross, too.

And so a woman may be persuaded to try again even against her better judgment, because of that little forlorn hope in her that "things may be better now," while a man, whose nature is more practical, judges of the future by the past and refuses to be coerced by any chimera of "maybe."

Still another reason for woman's forgivingness is her economic dependence upon man, which has been bred in the bone, one might say.

Even the woman who was a wage-earner before marriage finds herself fearing to take the world alone again after a few years of married life particularly if she has a child or more. She will bear insults and injuries and forgive again and again, rather than have the home door closed behind her, even as her own bidding.

She will tolerate much, for the sake of a companionship to which she has become accustomed. After she has once slumped into a marital frame of mind, she always finds it easier to return to it than to make an entire break.

It is a truth that marriage has a oneness in it which even divorce cannot entirely eliminate, and a woman once married is never entirely divorced from her husband, no matter how legally free the courts have made her, nor how much she may despise him.

Last but not least, the good Lord, made an extra little corner in a woman's heart where she cherishes the uring, and loves them and forgives them times without number—not for any reason at all, but just because she is a woman, the possible mother of little children who must needs make many mistakes, and the comfort of big men who after all are so very like little children, but whose mistakes are not easily overlooked by comfort to which she clings—a comfort that is the cross, too.

JUDGE KAREL GIVES REPUBLICAN REGIME A SEVERE GRILLING

Promises His Election Will Secure A Political House-Cleaning And A Business Administration.

Judge John C. Karel of Milwaukee was unequivocal in his arraignment of the present state administration in his address at the Milton Junction festival yesterday afternoon. He attacked the La Follette-McGovern platform as a "laurel of 'Bob' La Follette, a will-o-the-wisp affair which abounded only in platitudes; he assailed the income tax law as a manifestly unjust measure which strikes vitally the prosperity of the state; and he charged wanton recklessness in the expenditure of public funds, giving figures to show comparisons between Illinois and Wisconsin.

In his promises to the voters, Judge Karel first of all vowed his allegiance to the national democratic party, its candidates and its platform. He declared he would wage his campaign in behalf of the candidates of his party everywhere and he would actively support and urge the principles of the party now and seek to enact them into laws if he was successful at the polls November 5th.

If elected Judge Karel asserted there would be a political house-cleaning in an effort to "rid the state of office-seekers and political parasites." It was his aim, he said, to give the state a "business administration," absolute and unqualified, and to make this commonwealth a desirable place in which to live and conduct a business.

Judge Karel spoke with conviction and earnestness. He has a powerful voice and a commanding presence, which make him an impressive public speaker. His remarks were greeted with applause and his audience stood in marked attention for nearly an hour in the cold of an early fall day.

"There are two subjects which have been freely discussed during the present campaign," said Judge Karel after his introductory remarks complimenting the people of Milton Junction on their festival. "One of these is the income tax question and the other the wanton expenditure of public funds. The income tax was devised, it is said, to catch the tax-dodger, but I want to ask you who is the worse, the tax dodger or the men in office who are responsible for prodigal extravagance."

Judge Karel gave elaborate treatment to the income tax proposition. He began with the drafting of the law by Prof. Kinsman of Whitewater at that authority had stated that the system was impracticable; he pointed out the extensive machinery which the state found necessary to place the law in operation thus adding many more office-seekers to the state payroll; he charged the act with being inequitable in nature; he attacked the state tax commission for its unequal zeal in explaining and interpreting the law; and he showed how it had not only proved a colossal failure in fourteen other states, but that its cost of collection was such as to make it a poor form of state taxation.

He dwelt on the fact that since the passage of the income tax law industries had not only been driven from the state but progressive investors in Wisconsin properties and factories had been scared away to other more attractive fields. The protest was loud against this condition, he said. In Douglas county, usually republican by large margin, the democrats showed surprising gains at the last election. The reason was that some of the big factories, notably the Illinois Steel Company, had moved across the boundary to Duluth on account of the unfavorable Wisconsin legislation.

He recalled the statement of a Milwaukee manufacturer who said that his product cost one and two cents more to make than formerly as a result of the income tax. It meant a higher price and he found himself unable to compete with manufacturers outside of the state. It might mean that he would be forced to close his factory or move. He employs 420 men.

Judge Karel declared the farmer was effected. He "pays the freight," but the law which will act on Wisconsin farmers as the income tax law acts on the merchants and manufacturers, he said, was the thickest net law. As passed at the last legislature it made no provision for reimbursing the farmer for animals condemned and destroyed and the effect might be to put some farmers out of business.

In regard to public expenditures Judge Karel pointed out how the Wisconsin, with half the population of Illinois, spent in 1911 nearly as much as Illinois, the latter state spending fifteen million and Wisconsin thirteen million. This huge extravagance had had its effects. Our population had failed to continue in its increase at the rate that Illinois had seen. "I am going after the republican administration," said Judge Karel, "and if I can get the records I will expose every method and will show how they have been feeding and encouraging the political parasites. If I am elected governor there will be a house-cleaning and public expenses will be reduced to a minimum."

The speaker asked democrats to give their support to their candidates for the assembly and state senate. It rested with the men who were sent to the state legislature to make possible the changes which the democrats will institute.

Following Judge Karel's address Calvin Stewart of Kenosha, democratic candidate for congress from the first district, gave a short address.

SIDEWALK KETCHES.

MONKEYS.

(By Howard L. Rapp.)

THE monkey is a vest-pocket imitation of man which is brought to this country and exhibited in a cage for the purpose of comparison with the real article. After a man with a full beard has been seen, the monkey is brought out, and the monkey is shown to be a little while and studied the countenance of the naturalized ape, he will break for the nearest barber shop on the dead run.

The monkey has long, eager toes and a prehensile tail, with which he is able to swing pro and con with a preoccupied look. He also has a coarse speaking voice, with which he argues violently with anybody who tries to pass him a sour peanut.

The commercial monkey is the kind which earns a living for some of the Italian who emits a broken tune from a hand-organ. There is also the trick monkey, which smokes a cigarette with much the same facial expression as his brethren in pants. The most ornamental form of monkey is called the mandrill. This is a robust type, which looks as proud as the father of unanticipated twins. The mandrill is about as highly colored as a Fourth of July poster, and has an elastic jaw which is only approached by a Georgia conch at a watermelon supper. When the mandrill opens his mouth to say something, he is half undressed.

The gorilla is the nearest approach to the male sex which science has yet dug out of Africa. He walks on two feet with the dignified air of a blouse floor-walker. The late Mr. Darwin discovered the ancestors of some of his wife's relatives by studying the gorilla at close range. The chimpanzee is a blood relative of the gorilla, although they do not mingle in the same social circles. The chimpanzee is a naughty and reserved animal, and has very little affection for anything except his meal. It is not safe to toy with a chimpanzee unless the person who is doing the toying is looking for a peaceful exit from these fleeting scenes below.

GIVE FASHION SHOW AT MYERS THEATRE

One Thousand Women See Pond and Bailey Display of Suits and Gowns on Living Models.

Nearly a thousand women and a fair number of men crowded the Myers theatre last evening at the first annual fashion show given by the firm of Pond and Bailey. It was a novel affair and the first of the kind ever held in Janesville. Fall and winter suits, hats, cloaks, furs, party gowns, opera coats, and other apparel were shown to advantage on living models, a means of displaying the fall fashions which was at once clever and original.

An especially noteworthy feature of the program was a bridal party consisting of bride, four bridesmaids, matron of honor and two flower girls. Mrs. Roy McDonald was very charming in the bridal apparel and the bridal party made an attractive picture. The appearance of the little flower girls, Margaret Earle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Earle, and Lucile Craft, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Craft, was greeted with a storm of applause.

The young ladies who assisted the firm at the affair last night were: Mrs. Roy McDonald, Misses Beth MacDonald, Lovene Eller, Lucy Granger, Cora Holt, Mae Granger, Effie Jones, Madge McKewan, and Ethel Crowley. Messrs. Pond and Bailey were gratified with the success of the event and expressed the intention of making the show an annual affair.

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher

Copyright, 1899, by George Matthew Adams BY WALT MASON

Oh, the sport awakes as the morning breaks, with a head like a load of brick; and his eyes are red in his aching head, and his poor old stomach's sick. His mouth is furred and he thinks some bird—a buzzard—has nested there; his throat is dry and he thinks he'll die, and there's free lunch in his hair. He notes with dread that he went to bed attired in his shoes and hat; and he sees a bear on his bedroom chair—but it's only the Thomas cat. He groans and sighs as he tries to rise from his couch of misery. "This lets me out from the festal rout—it's never a good thing to be a guest."

THE MORNING AFTER says he. To the joint he slinks for some saving drinks, the hair of the dog, you know; a few good jerks for his weakened works—he'll quit when the tremors go. But a slug of gin, when it's safe within, calls loud for a running mate; and the poor old sport takes another snort, and hits up the same old gait. And the sport awakes when the morn-breaks as sick as a gandered horse; his eyes are red in his swollen head, his comrade is R. B. Morse. To fill your vat with the same like that, to sleep in your hat and shoes: Do you call that fun, Oh, you sporty one, just getting the taste for booze?

Lacking Important Point. Can a woman be a successful "magician?" A contemporary wizard says that she can, and that in London there are many society women who have taken a course in wizardry as a means of becoming proficient in some kind of "parlor trick" by which to entertain company. It does seem, though, that a magician without coat sleeves to pull back, as a preliminary to doing his marvels, would be fatally deficient in paraphernalia.

NOTHING DOING. "Won't you come into the parlor where the light is burning low?" "No, thank you, Mary, darling; I don't like mushrooms, you know."

Find a spouse.

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY. Be especially considerate of those above you in position, giving them no excuse for using their power against you. You will make a journey or make some change which will benefit you. Those born today will be quick and alert and will start out in life with bright prospects. Too great a scattering of forces will sometimes cause their failure.

Notifying the God. One of the odd things the visitor to Burma will notice is the large number of bells about the pagodas. These bells are usually hung on sacred posts a few feet above the ground. They are sweet-toned, as all Burmese bells are, but they are not furnished with tongues. The worshiper who comes to pray before the pagoda strikes one of these bells with a wooden mallet. This is to attract the attention of the god.

PUBLIC IS ASKED TO AID IN THE MATTER. Persons Answering Fraudulent Advertisements Asked to Notify Gazette. The Gazette is desirous of keeping out of its columns fraudulent advertising and asks the assistance of its patrons to that end. There are any number of concerns in the country who make a living through a nicely worded advertisement, offering golden opportunities, and these unscrupulous people find fertile ground for work among the masses. Many orders are received in the Gazette mail for advertising which are returned as objectionable and where there is a question as to the qualifications the advertisement is omitted. All newspapers have this experience. But even with the utmost care there will be an occasional advertisement which will pass the scrutiny of the business department of the paper and find its way into the columns. The Gazette will deem it a favor if you will report to the office any trouble which may have been experienced through the answering of such an advertisement.
